Activities of the project: Youth Exchange

Cultural Heritage, Traditions/Tales, Rural Development

The first activity was set in Osijek - Baranja County (Eastern Croatia) during the spring time - in May 2007.

The main topic was getting to know local tradition, behaviour and different environments.

Young people had the marvelous chance to see Kopački Rit (Nature Park unique in Europe), St. Peters cathedral, the old fortress called Tvrđja from 18th century in Osijek and to taste local food (fish, kulen) and wine.

The second activity was set in Subotica from the 29th of August to the 3rd of September.

The main topic was the cultural heritage.

Young people could show the regional traditional dances and tried them.

They also visited the cultural heritage of the city: city hall, synagogue, catholic cathedral and orthodox church; the lake of Palić and learnt a story about it.

It was organised an excursion to Novi Sad and a visit to Petrovaradin fort from 15th century.

The third activity was set in Coruna (Galicia, Spain) on the 23rd of June.

The main topic was to celebrate the tradition about chasing the witches away.

Young people participated on the ceremony and on the party at the beach. they jumped over the fire and drunk the typical „guaimada“ to scare the witches.

The fourth activity was set in Osijek - Baranja County (Eastern Croatia) in autumn.

The main topic was the cross border cooperation and cultural exchange.

Young people had the chance to visit our fortress from the 18th century and Kopački Rit - Nature Park. They also tried out domestic food and drinks. They played traditional games and helped in making wine, rided a horses, drove a paraglide, a bicycle along Baranja and visited ethno villages, went swimming and fishing in Drava and Dunav and saw sea briefs of old roman buildings.

The fifth activity was set in Hrvatska Dubica during the summer.

The main topic was the youth camp.

During their stay young people could help building and clearing out the place (old traditional house) with arch yard and the private access to Una river so there could be held many events.

The volunteers could stay in the tents and have workshops with local youngsters as well as young people who could visit them and work together.

Project: United in Diversity

The main objective of that project is getting to know different traditions, customs and heritage of Italy and Croatia.

The project activities promote European values, such as equal opportunities, human rights and democracy and respect for other cultures.

Croatia is a country that will like to become an EU member state, and young people could discover a lot of things from their Italian colleagues through conversation and by working together. Both sides are promoting the highest respect for the other by cooperating in this project.

All the young participants are facing social difficulties such as discrimination of any kind, drug problems, broken families, etc. or disability.

Different and interesting activities such as an intercultural evening, were organised: road trips to see country and visits to traditional households, have a meal with them and discuss and learn some specific customs in the particular area.

Young people learnt a lot about each other through all of these activities, and local community is going to have another partner in the frame of the "pro-European" efforts.

All these people have been included in all of the workshops, and it was also therapeutical for young people on wheelchairs.

We wanted to give young people the chance to learn the historical heritage of another country, to understand the relationship between two countries, and something about the national cuisine by seeing and doing it. This has been done in workshops, and we also included young people in wheelchairs and took them to therapeutical horse- backriding together with other participants. The participants learnt how to make poetry in a traditional way, and there was also a media workshop where young people could document entire second part of the exchange through their own eyes.

During these two weeks we have documented the exchange, we have organised a making of poetry in the traditional way, a media workshops (short video clips have been filmed), evening activities such as traditional dances and meetings with the local partners for different workshops.

Before starting these activities we agreed on which specific regions of the two countries will be involved, on the consumers and on the workshops. We also decided how to spend the free time and we established the rules.

We also wrote down a questionnaire about the expectations of the participants (what do you want to learn, expectation from the practical part, etc.).

After all the activities the participants had to fill in a final evaluation (how did they see all the project, were they satisfied with it, ...).

The training included a first week- theory and a second week- practice.

We succeeded in including youth in decision making and in having a huge media coverage (web page, blog, press clippings).

And because it is about creating a common European meeting point intercultural international, everyone could participate.

Finally, 24 young people with social, economic, cultural and geographical problems participated to the project.

The follow up of this activity will be putting our own local mate-

Youth: in the right direction

Media

This project was set in Istria at the end of June in different places: ATP Umag, Motovun film festival, Pula- Arena, Rovinj- Isola Rossa.

The project aims to create a web portal which will be a meeting and infopoint (on web) for youth, including web and radio.

Young people could understand this new kind of media and make experience of what is the job of journalist or web creator, cameraman...

Citizenship, Democracy, Drugs, Alcohol, Abuse, Racism, Xenophobia

The project fosters young people's sense of European citizenship and helps them to understand their role as part of the present and future of Europe; it reflects a common concern for European society, such as racism, xenophobia and anti-semitism, drug abuse...

The project's theme is of European interest, such as EU enlargement, European institutions, European projects, in fact the project activities promote European values, such as equal opportunities, human rights and democracy, respect for other cultures.

The project focuses on young people who are facing different problems such as Educational difficulties (early school-leavers, etc.), Social difficulties (discrimination of any kind, drug problems, broken families, etc.), cultural differences, economic and geographical difficulties, disability and health problems.

The first part of this project was set in Subotica during the summer.

The main topic was Xenophobia. Young people visited the City Hall built in Art nuovo, the big Cathedral, the Reihl palace, fountains, the orthodox church, Palić lake and Palić Zoo. They tasted local food and drinks. They also had the chance to visit "slamarke" (making pictures from strokes), to ride a bike to the Ludas lake- nature park with rare bird species protected by the UNESCO (it is around 25-30 km of a ride), to spend time in nature instead of staying inside a room.

The second part of the project was set in the Eastern part of Croatia: in the cities of Osijek, Vukovar and Kutjevo in May and June.

The main topic was learning from the past and live with tolerance. Young people visited places in which they could see how the consequences of the war, which had lasted for few years, could be left by decades (churches, palace, schools, old forts). We also organised workshops with tolerance as topic, including young people there and initiating the foundation of a Youth club (partnership with Serbian and Croatian schools). Finally, a visit to Kutjevo was organised.

The third part of the project was set in Sisak in July. The main topic was learning how to be active (to use your potential and possibilities of local community).

The fourth part will be set in Belgium next year, during summer 2008.

The main topic is going to be Racism and Immigration. The focus groups will be young people from local and immigrant groups from various countries (multilateral), they will be explained about the issues of racism and immigration- from both points of view. We will also organise several workshops and discussions about the cultural activity (dress, dance, food etc.); the European human rights; the European enlargement; the local actions. Plus a a visits-meetings in Brussels and a making of cd, dvd, paper, charter, website etc.

Ideas of future activities for the project

The following projects are in fact project proposals from our participants. During the trainings they had the chance to write down their own projects which are divided in 2 groups: EVS (European Voluntary Service) and Youth Exchange. In the EVS group there are different kind of projects, especially aiming to develop social care and education.

If you are interested in having a partnership with us for one of these projects, please contact

The project will take place in 3 different countries: Montenegro, Bosnia and Herzegovina and Serbia.

The 4 EU partners will be: Greece, Italy, Romania and Bulgaria.

They will learn new ideas, new initiatives and will have the chance to socialize with other people coming from the EU.

The follow up of the project will be a multiplication of new experiences, an enlarged network and cooperation with other NGOs, institutions and organisations.

Youth Activism and Voluntary Participation

The project's theme is of European interest because we promote European values, such as equal opportunities, human rights and democracy and respect for other cultures. The project fosters young people's sense of European citizenship and helps them to understand their role as a part of the present and the future of Europe. The project will be set in Mostar and will last 2 weeks.

We will organise international evenings, work on the field, exchange of ideas about being a volunteer, a presentation of the different organisations, one day excursion, games and discussions.

The objective is to learn new things from new cultures and from the differences which exist between different countries, to exchange experiences and to acquire practical experience.

We want to involve in the project young people who are facing different kind of difficulties, such as educational, social, cultural, economic and geographical difficulties.

We have also planned an Advance Planning Visit a month before the starting up of the project and we will ensure the safety of our participants with an insurance and doctors available 24/7.

Drug Abuse

This project aims to exchange experiences on drug abuse in the European Union. It will contribute to raise awareness about drugs and will teach young people how to run an anti - drug campaign, a drug - abuse seminar on a local level and how to organise training courses in their own countries. This project will involve three different countries: Bosnia, Croatia and Serbia. Our partner group from the EU will be the country of Slovenia.

A group of experienced trainers from our partner country will conduct a short training course on drug abuse, then a seminar on drug abuse will be organised. The final objective is that young people would gain valuable experiences on how to organise an anti - drug campaign, seminars and training courses in their local communities.

Both the training course and the seminar are open to everyone. People with special needs are not directly the target group, but they are in a position to attend this seminar, especially if they are facing social difficulties such as discrimination, drug problems, broken families, etc.

Trainers should come 3 months before the starting up of the project for an Advance Planning Visit in order to organise the activities and to specify the special features included in the seminar.

We could ensure visibility because after the training course and the seminar participants will be able to organise other seminars and anti - drug campaigns.
