

Training course on European project-cycle management

ALDA's practical training offers functional and high-profile operational tools for drafting, submitting and managing projects funded by the European Commission in response to specific calls for proposals. This course is designed for students, social workers, associations, cultural organisations, local authorities and everyone willing to developing skills to prepare a project proposal and/or learn how to manage an already funded initiative.

Our method? Let's go practical! The course will take place in the form of in-depth workshops, which will be divided into moments of frontal lessons and practical exercises in groups. Trainers will be also available for individual ad-hoc consultancy and coaching sessions.

Content

During the course you will learn how to Identify European funding opportunities of interest; draw up a logical and coherent project proposal as well as a successful budget; managing a project from a financial and administrative point of view. You will understand what are the elements to optimally coordinate an international partnership, find out how to communicate with the actors involved in the project and discover how to effectively disseminate the activities carried out.
